

8th Session

(31 July – 14 August 2019)

INTERNATIONAL LAW WITHOUT TERRITORY?

Governing spaces, resources and people beyond the confines of state territory

THE 2019 PROGRAMME

This year's MACIL summer programme will examine whether international law is fit for some of the most pressing challenges of the 21st century. Seminars are going to address various issues that extend beyond state territories and thus challenge basic concepts of the international legal order, inter alia:

The international legal framework for dealing with climate change • the transnational legal regime for the regulation of foreign investments • the international governance of the Internet • the exploitation of resources in space • the legal status of migrants, refugees and persons holding multiple citizenships • the continuing legal significance of the concepts of "territory" and "jurisdiction"

8th Munich Advanced Course in International Law (MACIL) – 2019 Session

International law without territory? – Governing spaces, resources and people beyond the confines of state territory

General Information

The MACIL summer school, run by LMU's prestigious Institute of International Law, offers an opportunity for students and young professionals to dedicate two weeks to intense and in-depth study of international law. The programme is taught in English.

Lectures are given by renowned experts of international law. The MACIL class is composed of about 30 students, allowing for a close exchange of ideas between lecturers and students. Classes bring together participants with different academic backgrounds – advanced undergraduates, master and PhD students, and young professionals – and more than 20 nationalities each year.

As an additional treat, the first two days of the programme are spent on a retreat in the historic city of Burghausen.
